Mr. William Erskine, attorney for the rallway companies, who was unable to be present the previous evening, last night spoke relative to the reasons why he present the previous evening, last night epoke relative to the reasons why the injunction was applied for. The representatives of the companies had been unable to get from the board of public works last Saturday night such plans of procedure as were set out in the board's answer to the bill of plaintiffs' and in fact, they had been led to believe from the circumstances then existing that serious damages seemed likely to result to the company's property.

Continuing, Mr. Erskine stated that though it might not be in line with an argument to the demurrer, he felt that it should be known why the injunction was applied for. From statements of two members of the board of public works it appeared that a surface drainage of Twelfth street was contemplated. Since the answer had been made by the counsel for the board, the situation was more satisfactory to the railroad people. But a Saturday with where the board of the port of the por having previous notice, and not knowing the extent of the changes proposed, were naturally alarmed.

Mr. Erskine virtually admitted that the injunction was not desired. The court sustained the demurrer, thus happily ending what several days ago looked as though might terminate only after lengthy litigation. The railway companies were acting in all fatrness, and wished to file an affidavit showing the facts as existing at midnight one week ago to-night; but the motion coming after the court's decision, prevented it from being filed.

ly in the past and could see nothing but extravagance in any outlay of money, for many things, that in her youth were considered as luxuries and to be indujed in only by very wealthy people, but which in after years had become necessities.

I fear my friend "Anti-Loan" is one of this class and did not consult his dictionary in spelling his nom de plume. He cannot forgive me for my blunder acknowledged and explained promptly, hence I will call attention to a blunder he makes when he says, "You," refer-Cansed by reading the self-praising ads, of self-maned optical experts (1, doctors II, professors II and clarroyants (1) can be cured without publicity by J. hence I will call attention to a blunder he makes when he says, "You," refer-ring to myself, "made up a debt state-ment for 1894 and deducted from it bal-ances on hand at the end of the year. Then you made up a statement for Jan-uary 1, 1897, and made no allowances for balances which may be on hand at that time."

Perhaps "Anti-Loan" can fall back upon the "intelligent compositor" who makes him say 1894, when he meant 1884, and 1897 when he wrete it 1898, but as he trakes no correction, that I have seen, he has not been so prompt in seeing his blunder as I was in seeing the blunder I made. In my case I between Benwood and Dogskin, in Monroe county. (Ohio), is now at 266 feet, and the 10-inch casing has been put down. A good well is hoped for at this important he blunder I made. charged up to them and they had made their report to the city clerk at that date, returning bonds redeemed and coupons paid. Such a statement cannot be made of the financial status of the city for 1887 until the commissioners make up their reports. The estimated summary given is made by taking the balances of loans at January 1, 1897, and deducting the amounts appropria-ted by the finance committee to be paid upon them during the year 1897. This, 1 on them during the year 1897. This, I upon them during the year 1837. This, I say, has been done.

In the matter of outstanding orders, the amount to be paid can only be conjectured, for two reasons, they can only be taken up with the money on hand in the particular fund upon which they are drawn, that is to say, an order upon the contingent fund cannot be paid out of money belonging to the general fund or to the ten cent fund, nor can general fund orders be paid out of any or either of the other two funds, hence the amount paid will depend upon the condition of the fund upon which each order is drawn. As the fifty cent tax levy contributes to the general fund, it is presumed that most of the outstanding general fund orders can be taken up without impairing the appropriations made for the pay rolls of the police, fire department, etc.

tions made for the pay rolls of the po-lice, fire department, etc.

The receipts through the collector's office on account of the ten cent levy, also contingent fund made up of fines and costs, collected in the police court, from scales, market houses, and wharf-age, are being used by the board of public works to whom they belong, and until winter opens and the work upon the streets is stopped very little money can be accumulated in these two funds, contingent fund and ten cent levy, to pay outstanding orders with.

contingent fund and ten cent levy, to pay outstanding orders with.

A eccond reason is it would be a big job to go to work and compute the interest on these outstanding orders; this wil be done before making up our January account, but the public will not demand it of us now. Any man of general intelligence will not require us to go so closely into particulars as this. As I have said before, I think the committee have been too conservative in placing the outstanding orders at only $22,000.

In conclusion, I may, without committing a discourtesy, relate a circumstance connected with my first experience in my present position that I may say did not agree with my previous understanding of the manner of conducting the business of council committees, more especially the committee. mittees, more especially the committe on finance.

The present committee on finance is composed of gentlemen who, with the exception of but one or two, had had no previous experience as members of that committee.

ter organization, I was surprised to find reporters from all the daily news papers present by invitation, while, as I say, I was surprised, it was a pleas-I say, I was surprised, it was a pleas-ant surprise to me. I had conceived the idea that all matters of finance were considered sub rosa in committee and only such matters as were to be offered in council were given to the public. I found, further, that the city editor of the Register was the best posted man on city finances, in the city, ex-cept it might be two or three ex-mem-bers of council, and his opinion was courted and in many instances deferr-ed to by the newly elected members. If ed to by the newly elected members. If "Anti-Loan" wants any further infor-mation, I would respectfully refer him to the city editor of the Register.

THE PASSION PLAY

Attracted an Interested Audience to the Carroll Club Auditorium Last Evening The Passion Play of 1900. A thoroughly interested audience lis tened to a splendid lecture, illustrating the Pasion Play, the greatest production of this age, at the Carroll Club auditorum last evening. The lecturer was Mr Thomas H. Cummings, of Boston, and is manner of address as well as his story, was fascinating. As the plot of the Passion Play is known to everybody, its rehearsal here is uncalled for, but the place and time of holding as well as the actors, may be news. The place is Oberammergau, Bavaria, the time every ten years, the last performance was in 1890, and the actors are selected by the town council, it being the ambition of every citizen to some time take part in the production. The anxiety and excitement around election time is intense, 700 of the population being required for each performance. The man (Joseph Meyer) whose picture was shown last night, had taken the part of Jesus of Nazareth four times, covering a period of forty years of his life, and would have had it in 1900 had he lived. For the coming production, the man who last time represented the faithful aposite John, is expected to get the leading part. incalled for, but the place and time of Evry detail of putting on the play was graphically shown, from the chorus, which sings the description, to the tableaux, which take up a stage 175 feet long and 85 feet deep. The performance ba-gins at 8 a. m., continuing until 12; then, beginning again at 1 p. m., continues nutil sundown. The theatre holds 6,000 people, who are seated in the open air, and rain or shine, no person stirs. The nins stated, it was not playacting, but real life.

OF all the popular American airs, the favorites of Edouard Remenyl, the great violinist, are "Suwanee River" and "Dixey." It recently came to the notice of Mr. Remenyl that the author of "Dixey." Mr. Dan Emmet, was living in poverty in an obscure town in Ohio. The fact so touched the heart of the genial genius that he immediately set about to raise a fund for his relief, and started it himself with a contribution of $50. That a man who could compose "Dixey" should live in poverty in enlightened America is something unaccountable.
